African-Americans, Negroes, Blacks And Post-Blacks All Agree:

THE USE OF THE “A” INSTEAD OF THE “ER” CHANGES EVERYTHING!
Race is a social, not a natural, construct. Although the idea of race is ubiquitous, and race has been used as a basis for social differentiation, it is often misunderstood. Race is not a biological category, but rather a social construct that has been used to create categories of people based on perceived physical characteristics. This construct has been used to create systems of discrimination and oppression, which have had a profound impact on the lives of people of color.

Dominio Effect

Race is a social, not a natural, construct. Although the idea of race is ubiquitous, and race has been used as a basis for social differentiation, it is often misunderstood. Race is not a biological category, but rather a social construct that has been used to create categories of people based on perceived physical characteristics. This construct has been used to create systems of discrimination and oppression, which have had a profound impact on the lives of people of color.

Black Is, Black Ain’t

April 20 – June 6, 2008

Opening Reception: Sunday, April 20, 4:00–7:00 pm
Fostering a talk with the artists from 4:30–5:30 pm

The Renaissance Society
at the University of Chicago
955 East 57th Street
Chicago, IL 60637

Museum Hours
Tuesdays – Saturdays, 10 am – 5 pm
Sundays, 1–5 pm

www.renaissancesociety.org

Teeny Adams
Edgar Arceneaux
Elizabeth Axman
Jonathan Calm
Paul D’Amato
Deborah Grant
Todd Gray

Shannon Jackson
Thomas Johnson
Jason Lazarus
Levin Lithgow
Glenn Ligon
David McKenzie
Rodney McMillan

Jerome Mosley
Virginia Nimark
Demetrious Paige
Sze Lin Ping
Carl Pope
William L. Robert A. Pruitt

Randy Regier
Daniel Roth
Joanna Rytel
Andres Serrano
Hank Willis Thomas

Michaeline Thomas